Question	Given Anglesey is an island with summer peaks and the project focuses on social housing, please provide evidence that this Method may not be replicable to other areas of GB.
Notes on question
Answer	Anglesey experiences winter peaks akin to the rest of the UK. Whilst it demonstrates some higher than average load during the Easter period, it remains a winter peaking location and the effect of domestic housing predominates. This project focuses on local network constraints which will be similar to other GB locations.
