

Retail Market Review Response

All these things would be good:

Stop unfair pricing, enforce one unit price tariffs and ban automatic rollovers on fixed tariffs. It wants your view by 1 June 2011.

It remains to be seen whether OFGEM has the will and the power to enforce these.

The big 6 energy companies are also frustrating switches in the domestic market by making cancellation charges on fixed term contracts where they also move prices upwards during the term of the contract even though it's a fixed term contract. Surely this should be outlawed as it is obviously unfair and unjust. It's also anti-competitive. Everyone should be free to switch at will to create an even playing field across the energy markets.

After all it's time in existence where nothing much has happened, let's hope OFGEM can make a difference and not be bullied and pushed around by the big 6 energy companies.

Kind regards

A solid black rectangular box used to redact the signature of the sender.