

Retail Market Review Response

My opinion is that gas and electricity suppliers i.e. the Big Six are a "cartel".

Tariffs are difficult to understand and comparison is virtually impossible as one cannot compare like with like as each company uses different methods to price..

It is high time that the Big Six were forced into producing comparable tariffs to everyone's benefit.

It is also unfair that people on a pre-payment meter who are often the most deprived in society have to pay more for their energy than those able to use a standard or online tariff. Not acceptable.

Possibly Ofgem might listen????
