

Need to Maintain Anonymity of Domestic Usage Data

This plot from my home energy monitor quite clearly indicates that I was away on holiday during most of August, returning on 26th August, when my consumption (shown in blue) started changing more randomly once again, rather than being fixed at a much lower level than usual.