Submission section question relates to	Appendix I: Benefits Table
Topic	Benefits
Question	You estimate £■■■■m of benefits by 2030. To whom does this accrue?
Notes on question
Answer	As you state, there is an estimated £■■■■m of benefits from the projects that are directly funded by the NIC programme up to 2030. This relates to the projects which will be carried out within the timescales of the NIC (up to 2021). The benefits of which will come from the implementation of the technologies and the learnings from these projects. This implementation will largely be carried out after the end of the NIC project, and after the end of the RIIO-T1 period. Therefore the way in which benefits are accrued will be dictated by the terms of the next review period, which is unknown at this point. These benefits will result in savings made in the operation of the network. Under the existing regulatory arrangements these would be passed back to customers. We have made the assumption that this arrangement will continue under the next price control period and thus, the savings made will continue to be passed on to customers.
