

Energy companies publish 2012 segmental generation and supply statements

Following our Energy Supply Probe, and in order to increase energy market transparency for consumers and other stakeholders, we introduced the Financial Information Reporting licence condition. This places requirement on the large vertically integrated energy companies to produce statements segmenting their supply and generation activities.

As part of our Retail Market Review in 2012, we amended the licence condition and associated guidance to improve the segmental statements.

The links below show the location of the 2012 segmental statements on each company's website, followed by the links to the 2011, 2010 and 2009 results.
