¹ As per the Better Regulation Framework (Better regulation framework - GOV.UK \(www.gov.uk\)), policy measures implementing EU directives, and other international commitments and obligations is also one of the administrative exclusions for the BIT (e.g. any policy measure implementing EU directives is not a QRP). However, the BIT exclusion for policy measures/decisions implementing EU directives, and other international commitments and obligations does not apply to decision/s which go beyond the minimum necessary to implement for instance an EU Obligation, decision, or directive. This is gold plating. Therefore, those elements of a measure that are classed as gold-plating count towards the BIT.
