Good afternoon,

Ceramics UK is a member of the Energy Intensive Users Group (EIUG) which submitted the attached / below response to this consultation yesterday.

We would like to clarify a point raised in the EIUG submission / covering e-mail regarding company size and link to energy-intensity. Energy-intensity is a 'relative' metric, so does not strictly relate to company size. Indeed 75% of companies in the the UK ceramic sector are SMEs, and ceramic manufacturing is one of the most energy-intensive processes. Whilst we are not presently able to engage further with the consultation do please bear this in mind in that what is a somewhat generic statement is not reflective of all individual energy-intensive sectors / companies.

Regards,
