Dear Colleague

Open Letter announcing the new Service Provider for the OAMI scheme

The Ofgem Approved Meter Installation scheme was previously carried out by CORGI in tandem with their gas safety governance responsibilities, which they managed on behalf of the HSE.

As you may be aware this function has recently transferred over to Capita, who administer the Gas Safe Register. The OAMI scheme was not a part of the core contract and therefore the scheme was temporarily being operated by Ofgem.

As set out in our letter of 11 August 2009, Ofgem has completed the tendering process to appoint a new Service Provider for the administration of the Ofgem Approved Meter Installer (OAMI) Registration scheme. The new Service Provider contract has commenced on 1st January, 2010. We are pleased to announce that the new Service Provider contract has been awarded to Wilcock Consulting for an initial period of six years.

As described in the previous Open Letter, Wilcock Consulting will register new applicants to the scheme, and conduct OAMI Surveillance Audits of those already on the register, with OAMI Surveillance Audits undertaken over a three-year cycle.

For further information including further scheme details and costs for Surveillance Audits and new Registrations please contact Wilcock Consulting. Their details are as follows:
