Dear colleague

Invitation to stakeholder workshop on CEER's gas target model, 1 September 2011, 14:15 to 17:00, Ofgem premises

On 5 July, the Council of European Energy Regulators (CEER) published its consultation on a "Vision for a European gas target model"¹. This had followed an invitation at the 18th Madrid Forum in September 2010 to explore, in close cooperation with system operators and other stakeholders, the interaction and interdependence of all relevant areas for network codes and to initiate a process establishing a Gas Target Model.

We encourage GB stakeholders to participate in CEER's consultation process. This will help ensure that the work will take full account of GB experiences and specificities. To enable you to develop your views and hear your reactions so far, we would like to hold a stakeholder workshop in London. There will be a presentation introducing CEER's proposals and opportunities for you to ask questions. Most of all, however, we hope there will be a debate around the recommendations and their impact on GB. The outcome of such a debate will be highly relevant for Ofgem's contributions as a CEER member.

Date: 1 September 2011 (14:15 to 17:00)

Venue: Ofgem premises, London
