Notes on question	n/a
Answer	In terms of project management, there will be five full-time members of staff dedicated to project delivery – as described on p34 of the full submission and in our response to question 22. In addition to the project manager and two workstream leads available throughout the life of the project, there will be specialist connections staff concentrated in the phases of the project where they are most required. As stated in the answer to question 20, the oversight for the delivery of the C₂C Project will be provided by Project Steering Group that will be staffed by senior executives from Electricity North West and senior executives from the Project Partners. There is substantial knowledge and experience of delivering large technical and commercial projects within Electricity North West which the C₂C Project team will be able to draw upon. The C₂C Project team will be embedded into the Future Networks team within the Network Strategy Directorate and therefore the project team will be supported by the current Future Networks team. Plus the Project Partners bring significant delivery expertise and have vast collective knowledge and experience of delivering projects that the C₂C Project team will be able to access, if appropriate.
