

I am writing as I'm concerned about the many different tariffs for gas and electricity, which makes it almost impossible to compare tariffs between suppliers.

A price per unit, without a standing charge, and with no reduction in price for fuel supplied above a certain threshold would enable us to compare prices and anticipate our expenditure.

This complicated pricing doesn't apply to petrol or diesel.

Many thanks,

[REDACTED]