

Gas Security of Supply Significant Code Review Process

Tom Corcut
Senior Economist, Wholesale Markets

Proposed final decision consultation

- Currently consulting on our proposed final decision, with the focus on the detailed implementation issues in the business rules and legal drafting
- We are open to industry-raised alternatives to implement our proposals
- We are open to comments on all aspects of our proposed final decision, though we do not expect to alter high-level policy decisions unless material new information comes to light
- Deadline for written responses is 24 October 2012

Workshops

- Three workshops currently scheduled
 - 7 September, 21 September, 2 October
- The purpose of these workshops will be:
 - Further work on business rules, and discussion of proposed legal drafting
 - Opportunity for industry to raise and discuss alternatives
 - Workshop 1: to discuss business rules and legal drafting as published alongside the proposed final decision
 - Detailed agendas for workshops 2 & 3 to follow
 - Open to views on how these could be structured

If you wish to attend please email gb.markets@ofgem.gov.uk

Expected timetable

- Our next publication will respond to representations on this current consultation, and (subject to the nature of consultation responses) we expect this will also incorporate our statutory consultation on licence changes alongside further consultation on code drafting
- Following this, we currently expect to make our final decision and issue directions to give effect to this in early-2013
- Xoserve would commence the relevant changes required to implement our proposals following our final decision
- We are aiming for our reforms to be implemented ahead of winter 2013-14, but will keep this under review as our process continues

Questions?

Promoting choice and value for all gas and electricity customers