

Information remedies working group

16th January 2013 Jemma Baker

Improving information to customers

Bill

We proposed a clear box on the front of the bill showing the supplier's cheapest tariffs and a box on page 2 for key tariff information.

Annual statement

We proposed a statement which is fully prescribed in format and content. However, suppliers may use their own colour and branding.

Price increase notification

To ensure the purpose of these notices remains clear we suggested prescribing two price information tables on page 1.

End of your fixed deal

We proposed to prescribe only the content of these notices to ensure they contained the key information to make an informed decision.

Tariff Info Label

To facilitate consumer comparisons between tariffs we proposed to introduce a standardised label which sets out key features of a tariff.

The level of prescription for language, formats and content varies across the communication channels

Overview of consultation responses

- Respondents agreed with our objectives for these proposals and broadly supported the need for some degree of standardisation of how information is presented to consumers.
- •All respondents were highly supportive of standardisation of terms initiative.
- •There were mixed views on whether some of our proposals were sufficiently flexible to allow for innovation and market developments

Overview of consultation responses by communication type

- Overall respondents agreed with the majority of the content requirements.
- •However, many questioned whether the level of prescription was appropriate.

- Broad support for the level of prescription
- Some respondents raised alternative suggestions on the content.
- Some suppliers raised concerns on the cost of implementation of information requirements, in particular personalised information.

Discussion Topic

Using the framework of our proposals set out in Oct 2012, what is the appropriate level of prescription?

For example, should there be:

- Content only requirements?
- Content requirements and positioning?
- Content, positioning and formatting restrictions?
- All of the above plus, language specified?

Your group is free to suggest changes to any level of the prescription which we proposed in Oct 2012.

- You have one hour to discuss in your groups the topic above for either the Annual Statement or the Bill.
- Following a short tea break, you will have a further 30 minutes to assimilate your discussion into a short 10-minute presentation of your group's preferred approach.
