Question	Given that the trials will involve modulating the consumption of energy, is there a need for any involvement of licensed suppliers in the trials?
Notes on question
Answer	As per our FSP one of the key project partners is Centrica, who have agreed to provide supplier input to the project from their subsidiary British Gas. Within the project, customers will remain fully in control of their supply arrangements and will not be forced to change supplier as part of engaging in the project. As a result, we will engage with multiple suppliers who are currently providing services to the sites under trial.
