3. Tell us about how the DNO engaged with you: a) What did the DNO do? b) How did the DNO do it? c) Did the DNO have a robust engagement strategy?	RT typically attends DNO expert panels, events on specialist topics and then informal engagement on specific issues. WPD does all these very well and has a clear, robust and effective strategy.

5. Actions: Do you think the DNO has delivered its work plan? a) How has the DNO done this? b) If you do not think the DNO has delivered its work plan, please explain why.	With regards the areas in which we are most active it has delivered its plan.

				<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
9. General feedback – please provide any further feedback on the DNO's 2019/20 engagement performance not covered in your responses above.	With WPD there is direct access to all the system planners (primary system design engineers) at the pre-acceptance stage, whilst an application is in flight, and post acceptance. We can have detailed, highly technical conversations with any of them, and they are typically very knowledgeable. The accessibility of this team is all the way from the fantastic Peter Aston (Primary System Design Manager) down through each of his four very good team managers that head up the PSD teams in each license area, through to skilled and diligent individual design engineers such as Joanne Monk (East Mids), Liam Aldron (South West), Matt Malcolm (West Mids) and Jonathan Mellowes (South Wales), all of whom epitomise WPD's engagement philosophy. There are no project managers, account managers or contract managers standing in the way of these communications, and as WPD also have the most comprehensive and transparent network record data availability of all the DNOs (which means that contact with engineers is required with less frequency and conversations are briefer and more specific), we make significantly more successful applications for low carbon energy schemes on WPD's network than any of the other DNOs.
